Consider Hospice

Hospice is probably one of the most difficult decisions you will have to make for your loved one. It doesn't mean that you are giving up, hospice means being physically comfortable, at peace, surrounded by your loved ones doing the things they like to do until the very end of life.

Hospice is compassionate care and pain management. It also provides emotional and spiritual support for your loved as well as the family. It provides access to other resources.

Safe Haven is a dedicated team guiding you through this process. We welcome the opportunity to speak openly and directly to ensure that you have a full understanding of hospice care.

Once you choose hospice for your loved one we will reach out to the physician and call the hospice team. They will then set up a meeting with you and anyone that you choose to have present for an evaluation to see if this is the right time for hospice care and answer any additional questions you may have.
